

EPALE - Electronic Platform for Adult Learning in Europe

Rosa Gallelli Log out

Blog

◀ View all blog posts

Adult learning, education and health

02/09/2020 by EPALE Moderator

Language: EN

Share your views

A green banner with a white circuit-like graphic of lines and circles. The text "Adult learning, education and health" is written in white on the left. On the right, there is a circular icon of a classroom with a teacher and students. Below the banner, the text "Workshop 7th October H 11.00-12.00 CEST" is displayed in green.

Adult learning, education and health

Workshop
7th October
H 11.00-12.00
CEST

The ongoing pandemic has been a timely reminder that public health is greatly dependent on comprehensive health education, not least for our senior citizens. From providing functional health information to supporting healthy lifestyles or debunking inaccurate or misleading health advice, adult learning and education has an essential role to play. Health education requires the collaboration of health ministries and their services.

During the workshop, two speakers will provide insight into their work in health education. We'll hear from a medical doctor working on health education concerning vaccination for vulnerable groups, and from an adult educator who coordinated a project demystifying misleading health advice. The presentations will be followed by smaller group discussions, during which the participants will have an opportunity to share their own experiences and reflections.

SPEAKERS:

- Jaap Koot – Research Coordinator at University Medical Centre in Groningen (UMCG)
- Anne Tastula – Project Coordinator at Finnish Lifelong Learning Foundation – KVS

The workshop is limited in number, for a maximum of 50 participants.

Please notice that this workshop is open only to EPAL users, therefore you need to be logged-in to the website before registering to the workshop. If you're not an EPAL user, create your EPAL account here.

To register just click on this link and fill in the registration form.

REGISTER HERE

You will receive an email containing the link to follow the workshop.

Registrations can be made by 30 September, subject to availability.

BACK TO THE CONFERENCE PAGE

Refresh comments

Enable auto refresh

Displaying 1 - 2 of 2

Adult immigrants and Wellbeing promotion

In the context of an innovative methodology of recognition of Prior Experiential Learning based on Portfolio of Experiences University of Studies of Bari, in the persons of me, Associate professor of Pedagogy and the dr. Pasquale Renna ph.d. in "Environment, Medicine and Health" is engaged in an Erasmus+ project called "APELE - Accreditation of Prior Experiential Learning Experiences", with the University of Akureyri (Iceland), University of Kobenhavens (Denmark), University of Patras (Greece) and Armes Progetti (Milan-Italy).

Less

Rosa Gallelli,
16/09/2020 11:31

Health and well-being promotion of adult immigrants in Europe

It is possible to promote Health and well-being of adult immigrant people in Europe through an innovative methodology of recognition of Prior Experiential Learning based on Portfolio of Experiences.

Pasquale RENNA,
16/09/2020 10:05

Add new comment

Your name

Rosa Gallelli

Subject

Comment *

											Font Family.	Font Size...

Save

Frequently Asked Questions >

A selection of already answered questions about EPALE

Subscribe >

Sign up to get updates on EPALE sent straight to your inbox